

A photograph of two glasses of beer on a dark wooden bar counter. The glass on the left is a tulip-shaped glass filled with a reddish-brown beer and a thick head of white foam. The glass on the right is a standard beer glass filled with a golden beer and a thinner head of foam. In the background, there are blurred lights and figures of people, suggesting a lively bar atmosphere. A metal bar strainer and a white napkin are also visible on the counter.
